TEN CENTS PER WEEK

CHANCES TO WIN AN AUTOMOBILE JUST DOUBLED

An $850 Ford Roadster Substituted for $500 Second Grand Prize.

50,000 Extra Votes For Candidate Who Hustles.

A WONDERFUL OPPORTUNITY.

INCREASE IN PRIZE LIST

Following a telephone conference with all of the publishers associated with The Sun in this contest it was decided to substitute an $850 Ford Roadster for the $500 second grand prize. This change increases the value of the list of prizes by $350, making it now for above ten thousand dollars, whereas it started with a bare eight thousand.

Candidates who are now working for an automobile have had their chances of winning one doubled.

There's no use talking, folks; you just simply can't keep the Sun's contest child from growing. Now, just see what happened yesterday. The prize list, up to that time aggregated approximately $10,000, but it didn't seem large enough. Today it is increased $350 in value.

For the last few days, the magnificent $1,000 Ford touring car—the first grand prize—has been circulating among the contestants in various districts. You have been told a little something about that matter, but you can't conceive of the amount of enthusiasm that has been awakened. Countless suggestions have been made that another car be added. A great many contestants thought another car should be substituted for the second grand prize, which was $500 in cash. And, as ever, the Sun listened to the voice of the people.

Second Automobile Added.

Yesterday arrangements were made whereby another automobile was substituted for the $500 in cash. It cost considerable money to do it, but the Sun insists on pleasing the people in this great race. They wanted two automobiles and now they have them. The second grand prize, therefore, is a beautiful $850 Ford roadster. That means that it has cost the Sun $350 more than the original prize. But the $850 represents only the price of the car. The freight being about $35 more. So the Sun has spent practically $400 more in order to give just double the chances to every contestant for winning an automobile.

Very Willing to Oblige.

Like the substitution of a second automobile, the publication of names of contestants was also in response to a request from a large majority of the candidates who seemed able to no longer control their curiosity as to the identity of their opponents.

Sugar Schedules Going Through Senate With Aid of Democrats Who Favor High Rates on That Product

Senator Lodge Introduces Bill to Mix Up Hour Between Two and Three in the Morning—Congress.

Washington, May 27.—Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, today introduced in the senate a bill, fixing the standard time to be known as the daylight saving's act. It is proposed that the hour between two and three o'clock in the morning each of the first four Sundays of April each year consist of forty minutes, and that the same hour in the mornings of each of the first four Sundays in each year, except 1909, consist of eighty minutes.

Sugar Schedule Stands.

By a vote of 47 to 36, the senate today refused to strike from the sugar schedule Dutch Standard color. On this subject the great fight of the Democrats and insurgent Republicans was centered. The result shows the finance committee has a majority of 11 votes to carry through the entire sugar schedule.

A vote was taken on an amendment to strike out the differential of seven and a half cents a hundred in favor of refiners. The motion was lost, 32 to 53.

Felley offered an income tax proposition as an amendment to the sugar schedule.

Senator Hristow, Republican, spoke for lower duties and elimination of the duties on standard requirement.

Senator McNary, Democrat of Louisiana, concluded his speech on sugar began yesterday afternoon. He favors high tariff.

OPENING SERMON BY DR. W. A. BANKS AT FOUNTAIN AVE.

Will Formally Begin District Conference of Methodist Church, South.

Episcopal Council Concludes at Henderson.

NATIONAL CHURCH MEETINGS.

The opening sermon of the Paducah district conference will be preached tonight at 8 o'clock at the Fountain Avenue Methodist church by the Rev. A. W. Banks, of Oak Level. The communion service will follow the sermon.

The regular business session of the conference will open tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock at the Fountain Avenue church. The Rev. J. W. Blackard, D. D., presiding elder of the Paducah district, will be in the chair during the sessions. Dinner will be served at noon at the church by the ladies of the Fountain Avenue and the Guthrie Avenue churches.

There is every prospect of the conference being a largely attended one. A few delegates came in this morning, and a number arrived this afternoon. The bulk of them will not come until tomorrow morning, though. Advance committee meetings are being held this afternoon.

Episcopal Council Closes.

Henderson, Ky., May 27. (Special.)—With a meeting of prominent Sunday school workers last night the Episcopal council of the diocese of Kentucky closed, after Bishop Charles Woodcock preached his annual sermon.

Among the speakers at last night's session were Dr. John S. Latham, Prof. Gordon L. Currie and the Rev. John S. Mockridge.

The Woman's Auxiliary met this morning and raised $1,040 for domestic and foreign missions. This was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the auxiliary and the fund was raised in honor of Bishop Dudley.

Southern Presbyterians.

Savannah, Ga., May 27.—No interference with the present status of Central University of Kentucky is to be made by the general assembly of the Presbyterian church. The vote that decided this question was on a motion to sustain the complaint of General Bennett H. Young and Rev. C. W. Somerville, of Kentucky, against the synod of Kentucky, which had it passed, would have brought before the assembly the whole question of its jurisdiction and would have delved back deeply into the history of the passing of the Central University from the control of the Kentucky synod.

The settlement was reached this afternoon and is probably final. The vote to sustain the complaint was lost 80 to 90.

Aside from this all-absorbing topic of the Central University interest centered today in the reports of the assembly's committee on foreign missions. It was reported that during the year an increase of more than two thousand members of the church in foreign fields had been attained, while the growing friendliness on the part of heathen peoples furnished an prophecy of greater harvests in the near future.

Twenty-nine new missionaries were sent out during the year, China getting fifteen, Brazil three, Africa two, Korea seven, Cuba two. Eighteen of the number are women. Contributions to the mission treasury for the year were $412,156.63, an increase of $88,277.99 over the previous year.

Northern Assembly.

Denver, May 27.—The Presbyterian general assembly today began winding up business in preparation for adjournment Saturday. The committee on church erection will make a report this afternoon. A heated debate is expected. Reports were made at the morning session.

I believe there will be no more conflicts in San Francisco relative to Japanese school children," is the statement today by Admiral Uriu en route to attend the reunion of the navy academy class of '81 at Annapolis.

Fly Wheel Flies.

The fly wheel flew off the shaft yesterday afternoon at the barge building plant of the West Kentucky Coal company. The accident happened just as the engineer shut off the steam, but the wheel was thrown with sufficient force to break through the roof and be whirled through the air to Meyer street, 25 feet distant. An unknown negro was struck a glancing blow on the hip by the wheel, but was not injured.

Florida Heedless Sale of Liquor.

Tallahassee, Fla., May 27.—Amid much excitement, the house committee of the whole accepted amendments to the liquor license bill, closing all saloons in the state at 9 o'clock on Saturday nights and 11 o'clock on other nights, allowing them to open at 6 o'clock each morning, and prohibiting the sale of wine, liquors or beers on trains or boats. An amendment to permit grocery stores to sell liquors was rejected, as was an amendment to prohibit the sale of less than one-fourth of a pint and requiring all liquors sold to be in sealed receptacles.

FLOUR ADVANCES, GROWING SCARCE, AS WHEAT GOES UP

Its Price in Paducah Takes Another Leap Forward This Week.

Millers Say Famine is Imminent in Country.

SOME STATISTICS FROM CITIES.

Up has jumped the price of flour again after a temporary sojourn at lower figures. Yesterday flour advanced 20 cents a hundred pounds or from $5.60 and $7.40 to $6.00 and $7.80 a barrel, wholesale, and from $7.00 and $8.00 to $7.50 and $8.50 a barrel, retail.

This is the third advance in price since January, and means that the consumer, both bakers and housekeepers are paying about 30 per cent more for their flour than they were on January 1. The reason assigned for the staff of life is the high price of May and June wheat, which is selling at about $1.56 as compared with $1.00 a year ago. The advances are attributed to the speculation on the market and the manipulation of the Chicago market.

While flour has increased about 30 per cent in price, wheat has increased about fifty per cent since the first of 1909. During January wheat was sold for about $1 a bushel at the mill, but now the same wheat is bringing about $1.50 when turned over to the miller's hands. As a comparison wheat has advanced at a more rapid rate than flour, which means that the millers have not kept in sympathy with the wheat market.

The bakers will stand still for a time, and there will not be any increase in the price of baker's bread. About a month ago the bakers advanced the price of bread slightly, but will not do so again unless forced to by the price of wheat.

Brokers are unable to understand James A. Patten's position at this stage of the big May deal. Instead of holding his long May wheat, he has been selling freely, giving shorts plenty of opportunity to cover before delivery day Saturday. Some brokers are declaring Patten is frightened at the popular feeling against manipulation of the necessities of life.

Supply Shrinks.

Chicago, May 27.—The supplies of flour in the United States following the seasonal advances in the cost of wheat, have shrunk almost to famine size. A startling decrease in the surplus stocks was revealed in reports from four large cities of the country presented at the seventh annual millers' convention at the Auditorium hotel.

For weeks the mills have not been grinding enough flour to keep pace with the actual demand of customers, and the ordinary surplus stocks have melted away like snow in the sunshine. If for any reason the big mills should be shut down for more than a week, a famine in flour, according to the millers, would become a serious possibility.

"If you could make a few days ago," said D. R. Gregory, of New York, in a report to the convention, "there were only 128,000 barrels of flour in warehouses and stores of New York city, as compared with 900,000 barrels a year ago. Twenty thousand barrels are consumed every day in New York."

Mr. Gregory also declared the supply of flour in Boston was 18,000 barrels below the normal.

H. T. Lawlor reported there were only 32,000 barrels of flour in New Orleans, which was one-half the normal amount in storage there.

Reports from other cities in the same tenor startled the flour men. The crop reports also submitted by delegates bore out the prognostications of James A. Patten, "wheat king" on the Chicago board of trade.

Wheat Weak Today.

Chicago, May 27.—Astonishment was expressed by brokers today at the unprecedented weakness of the wheat market. The pit was excited from the start. Trading was active and plenty. May and September were thrown upon the market by big traders. The result was May dropped to 1.31%, July to 1.16% and September to 1.09% in the first hour.

Princess Alice Aground.

New York, May 27.—The North German Lloyd steamer, Princess Alice, bound for Bremen via Plymouth and Cherbourg, is hard and fast aground off Port Wadsworth today. Captain notified officials of the line she is taking no water, and is seemingly unharmed. They will try to float the vessel at high water late this afternoon.

Fog and heavy weather caused the steamer's running aground. Several big liners didn't try to leave the harbor so thick was the fog. The stern of the vessel is in deep water. Her bow is high. All efforts to back her

BURLINGTON

MAY BE SEEKING OUTLET TO NEW ORLEANS.

Cairo Bulletin recalls Road Building This Way From the South.

In all that has been published about the Burlington's movement and plans at Metropolis, there has been no satisfactory explanation or statement as to its probable connections across the river. The Louisville & Nashville has a bridge at Henderson, the Illinois Central has one at Cairo. Hence probably neither of these companies is interested in a bridge at Metropolis. The Burlington alone could use the bridge and latest reports state that no other company is concerned in the bridge. The Burlington's purpose is evidently to reach the gulf, but by what route it would get there after crossing the river has been a matter of more or less doubt. There is a flaw in each of the suggestions so far made. There are good reasons, under the surface why the Burlington could not make harmonious traffic arrangements for the gulf with the railroads at Paducah, and very likely it has "other fish to fry." There's a road that has been creeping up gradually from Mobile during the last ten years, which seems to be regarded by knowing ones as a factor in the Burlington's scheme. It is the Mobile, Jackson & Kansas City railroad, which was started in a small way, by nobody seemed to know whom and has been pushed along little by little from the gulf port, following a line between the Illinois Central and Mobile & Ohio until it has reached Middleton, Tenn., with a line laid out as far as Jackson, Tenn. This road, it is believed, will be pushed along northward to Paducah and will be the Burlington's gulf line from that city when the bridge is built, rendering it independent of any of the other big companies that have been named.—Cairo Bulletin.

FOUND OUT.

A Trained Nurse Discovered Its Effect.

No one is in better position to know the value of food and drink than a trained nurse.

Speaking of coffee, a nurse of Wilkesboro, Pa., writes: "I used to drink strong coffee myself, and suffered greatly from headaches and indigestion."

"While on a visit to my brothers I had a good chance to try Postum, for they drank it altogether in place of ordinary coffee. After using Postum two weeks I found I was much benefited and finally my headaches disappeared and also the indigestion."

"Naturally I have since used Postum among my patients, and have noticed a marked benefit where coffee has been left off and Postum used."

"I observe a curious fact about Postum used among mothers. It greatly helps the flow of milk in cases where coffee is inclined to dry it up, and where tea causes nervousness."

"I find trouble in getting servants to make Postum properly. They must always serve it before it has been boiled long enough. It should be boiled 15 or 20 minutes after boiling begins and served with cream, then it is certainly a delicious beverage."

"There's a Reason."

Savoyard on James and Stanley.

(By E. W. Newman.)

Washington, D. C.—It was once the case that the Bluegrass of Kentucky furnished the statesmanship of the old Commonwealth. It was the home of Clay, the Breckinridges, the Marshalls, Preston, "Duke" Hobbs, Wickliffe, Garrett Davis, the Harlans, George Robertson, Crittenden, Harry, the Johnsons, Hildeso, the Clarks, and and many others of that older day. Even Harlinton, with Rowan, Wickliffe, Harlath, Guthrie, Hays, Johnson, Chapeau and other notable men might be classed as Bluegrass. And even in our day, Beck, Carlisle, Lindsay, Breckinridge, McCreary and Hineburn came from a section that a blanket might cover if its center was exactly over Lexington, the capital of the Bluegrass. In the old days the Pennyrile was content to be subordinate with the Buckners, Powell, Dixon the Underwoods, the Tompkinses, Heverly L. Clarke, Hise, McCreary, John Young Brown, Henry C. Burnett, Joseph H. Lewis, James A. McKenzie, John W. Caldwell, George Alfred Caldwell, James P. Hines and others of that calibre, never forgetting Thomas E. Bramlette and J. Proctor Knott.

But things have changed and Kentucky has fallen on times when the "Pennyrile" is about to usurp the place so long held by the Bluegrass. There are natural resources limitless in quantity and surprising in diversity. The soil is unsurpassed for all grains, tobacco, all the grasses, and orchards bearing all the fruits known to the temperate zone. For breeding and raising livestock of all species and for dairy and poultry products the Pennyrile is the equal of any region under the sun.

And there, too, is now lodged the political supremacy of the old Commonwealth. It is the citadel of the Democratic party, and furnishes the majorities that keep it in power in the state when it is in power.

I want to write something about two of the most conspicuous leaders of Western Kentucky now on the carpet, and to try to contrast them as I see them—Ollie James of the First congressional district, and Owsley Stanley of the Second. Seemingly

It was called thirty years before Ollie James was born. As I remarked, his father, yet living is a prominent and successful lawyer, though not as powerful before a jury as his son, who was a politician as soon as he was able to read a newspaper, and at the age of 13 he was appointed judge in the Kentucky legislature, the memorable session of 1884, that was prolonged into the spring because of the contest of Joe Blackburn and Cerro Gordo Williams and William M. Sweeney for the United States senate. Not even the long struggle John M. Palmer had for senator in 1891, or the two races of Andrew Johnson, equaled this as a sword-play of politics, and the excitement of thrilling pursuit. Late in April Blackburn was elected, and it was the most skillfully played game of political chess Kentucky ever saw, and no other state ever matched it.

This was an education for young James, and grave and veteran politicians consulted this boy and were astonished at the aptitude he then discovered for "moving assembly" that has now developed into a positive genius for the forum.

Stanley is four years older than James and was born in the Bluegrass. At twenty-two he was graduated from Centre College, perhaps the most famous institute of learning in the entire Mississippi valley, judged by the number of illustrious men of whom it is the alma mater. Five years later Stanley was admitted to the bar, studying meanwhile for the profession while professor of belles lettres in Christian College, and as principal of Marion Academy, in Ollie James' town. He practiced law in some half a dozen counties, and finally located in Henderson, where he has since lived.

He landed in that thriving city with less money in his purse than Stephen A. Douglas had when he got to Morgan county, Illinois, and that was less than one dollar. Two years later young Stanley was a rival, and frequently a successful rival, of the leaders of that, one of the strongest of Kentucky, a state so famous for great lawyers. His success came from a passion for research when the fit is on him. He is untiring and indefatigable in groping for the history, and thinking out the philosophy, of a thing, and if he could look the wisdom he has and the knowledge he has stored there would be no heading him whatever he went after.

Both James and Stanley are immensely popular, and the people love them as well as admire them. But that is not all—they are consummate politicians, know the game from beginning to end, and neither has yet made a serious mistake. They entered congress together—the Fifty-eighth—in 1903, and they became conspicuous the very first session. James gained an enviable reputation as counsel for Goebel in the celebrated contest for the office of governor of Kentucky in 1900, and Stanley acquired equal fame as leading counsel for the defense in a celebrated criminal trial in Western Kentucky. James was repeatedly a delegate to national conventions and chairman of the Kentucky delegation in three of them. Stanley has held no political position other than presidential elector in 1900.

In the convention at Denver last year Ollie James made a speech seconding the nomination of Mr. Bryan that was a marvel of fervid eloquence and brilliant construction of language. It was at once beautiful and ornate, and as a specimen of what is called "convention oratory" it has not been equaled since Bryan at Chicago twelve years earlier, and not surpassed by the more famous effort. And it been delivered when "convention eloquence" was at the zenith of its popularity it would have ranked with any similar oration ever delivered in an American political convention.

Stanley, too, is the author of a notable speech—the reply to Dabzell on Jefferson and Hamilton. Dabzell had got his history from that Harvard college set—Theodore Roosevelt is one of 'em—and it is history made to order, the facts to fit the prejudices of the historian. John Sharp William and Camp Clark told Stanley to leave Dabzell alone, that he was the most dangerous man in congress to tackle; but Stanley persisted, worked like a Turk day and night, for a week in research, and when he delivered it there was not a scrap left of Mr. Dabzell's speech.

Ollie James was made for a turbulent body like the house of representatives; Owsley Stanley was made for a sedate body like the senate. On the spur of the moment James can electrify the house; after intense study and minute research Stanley would captivate with a new phase of an idea, or a new idea with a new phase, or a new idea itself.

A REWARD OFFERED.

Every electric railway in the United States knows the menace of "fake" accident claims and fraudulent suits. And no honest citizen exists who would not give assistance to prevent any such corrupt cause coming before our courts in the disguise of woe.

Sometimes the sad-faced rascal who is bringing suit was near an accident but did not receive a scratch; sometimes it is an innocent looking criminal who was not even near an accident; sometimes it is a person who was actually hurt but who was to blame himself or herself — and knows it.

Most of these suits arise when some penny-catching lawyer gets hold of a so-called "victim" as dishonest as himself and wants to "share the profits" of suing the Company.

How are such suits maintained?

By perjury.

By witnesses who do not tell the truth.

For evidence upon which a conviction, for perjury, of any witness against this Company in an accident damage suit is obtained, this Company will pay $500.00 at any time during twelve months from date of this offer!

To Stout Women!

The "shapeless stout woman" is getting scarce. She has found a remedy in the famous Nemo "Self-Reducing" Corset.

It "makes over" your figure, giving you a better shape than you ever had, or ever expect to have; and reduces your abdomen so effectively that you can "take in" your skirts at least three or four inches.

There is a Self-Reducing Corset in a model for every type of stout woman—tall and stout, short and stout or just "fat."

312 for tall stout women
320 same, with Flating-Back
314 for short stout women

Every Nemo Corset is made with the Nemo "Triple-Strip" Reinforcement—bones and steels cannot cut through.

Horrorsome License.

A quaint touch of Oriental ingenuity to harass the persistent users of opium has been invented by the superintendent of police at Canton, says Lancet's correspondent in China. This official has issued 20,000 wooden licenses, ten inches long and eight inches broad and three-fifths of an inch thick. On the front of these boards are characters giving the smoker's name and address, and the quantity allowed him per diem, and on the back are the opium regulations. The licenses are not allowed to cover their boards when going to buy opium, but must wear them conspicuously so that all may see them. Next year these wooden licenses are to be two feet long by one and a half broad, and three-fifths of an inch thick. —Argonaut.

The Chicago members of the committee were solidly against the bill.

Important to Farmers.

The house passed a very important bill to farmers, when it passed the bill appropriating $355,000 for the establishment of an agricultural department at the state university at Champaign; $15,000 per year to carry out the experiments; $50,000 per year for soil examination and tests; $15,000 per year for experimenting on orchard treatment; $15,000 per year to discover and demonstrate the best methods of producing and marketing wholesale milk and dairy products; and $7,000 per year for experiments in producing cut flowers, plants and vegetables under glass.

Other Bills Passed.

The house passed the bill making an appropriation for and establishing a state mining commission and a bill abolishing the chair of mining and engineering at the University of Illinois; $15,000 for repair of bridges on the Illinois and Michigan canal; a bill appropriating the salary of the late Judge Guy C. Scott, of the supreme court to his widow until his term of office shall have expired, and the bill making it a felony to maliciously file a false complaint against voters who are registered.

Congressman Lorimer conferred with Representative Church, of Chicago, one of the Demos leaders, and Representative Stearns, of Waukegan, at 2 o'clock this morning, but the conference was without results.

Cigarette Bill.

The cigarette bill passed by the house last week was received in the senate and referred to the senate committee on manufacturers.

Senator Helm's resolution restricting the Chicago representation in the general assembly to 19 senators and 51 representatives was postponed for consideration until Thursday morning on special order of the senate.

Senator Gardner's bill, providing that the governor may not fill vacancies in the list of state officers by appointment for more than one year and that in case of such a vacancy he shall call a special election to fill it, was passed by the senate.

Manny Bill Killed.

The senate by an overwhelming majority struck the onerous clause out of Senator Manny's bill which provides for a single state board of control for the three Illinois penitentiaries and reformatory institutions.

Brewers Win Fight.

Representative Behren's bill providing that the brewers shall not be in any degree interested in saloons either as owners of stock or the building, or renters of the furniture or stock or as mortgagors, and the saloonkeepers in securing a license must make affidavit that they are not interested in breweries, was killed in the house, receiving 42 votes, while 58 were cast against the measure.

The house also refused to pass Representative Loderer's bill permitting children under twelve years old to participate in dramatic or theatrical performances when accompanied upon the stage by guardian or parents. The bill received eleven votes, and Loderer moved that further consideration be proposed which was adopted. The house passed the bill for a commission to modify the building laws and report at the next general assembly.

The senate passed the bill providing for a state fire marshal and two assistants, the bill providing for the appointment of a traveling commission of three to investigate tuberculosis, and appropriating $5,000 per year for their expenses.

White Slave Bill Passes.

The senate also passed the "White Slave" bill, making heavy penalty against the traffic in women and girls for immoral purposes, that a woman may testify against her husband and that if the sale is plotted outside the state the offense shall be deemed to have been committed where the crime is consummated.

Senator Landee's bill classifying the counties for the purpose of determining the salaries of the county superintendents, passed the senate.

Two Important Insurance Bills.

Two important insurance measures passed the house today, practically by unanimous vote. One of them prohibits the underwriting of all pools, trusts and agreements which regulate or fix rates. Its violation is punishable by the revocation of charter and by a fine of $500 to $1,000, or one year imprisonment or both. The other requires fire insurance and life insurance companies organized outside insurance for the payment of all claims against them.

More Bills Passed.

The senate passed the bill empowering cities to levy a two mill tax for public improvements, the bill appropriating $500,000 appropriated at the last session and $100,000 additional for the procuring of additional lands and buildings for the Joliet penitentiary. The bill taxing corporations one twentieth of one per cent of their capital stock in addition to the regular taxation, the tax not to be less than $10 or more than $500, and the bill providing for the payment of special assessments in 20 year installments, instead of 10 years as at present. Landee's bill creating an educational commission of twelve members who shall serve without salary was killed as was Riddle's full crew bill.

The house passed the bill providing for the employment of convicts in working on the proposed new penitentiary at Joliet.

Receives Commission.

Springfield, Ill., May 27.—William Lorimer's commission was delivered to him.

Lorimer late last night announced his intention of remaining in Springfield to take up with the general assembly the question of co-operation between the federal government and the state of Illinois in the construction of the deep waterway. When that matter has been considered and the time seems fit the newly elected senator will journey to Washington.

If a woman is only sure her hat is on straight and her skirt hangs right she feels that she is equipped to conquer worlds.

At some of the stations, marked "Destitution," penniless women had been forcibly conscripted. At others, marked "Higher Standard of Comfort," women, not absolutely penniless, had reluctantly, but still without actual coercion, enlisted for the purpose of supplementing the family income, because while their mothers were contented with the bare floors and tin dishes, they themselves, with growing self-respect, demanded carpets and china. Finally, at a third variety of recruiting station, there had been employed a full brass band which played a tune called "Economic Independence," with endless variations, and a certain number of women, whose male relatives were bidding their highest to be permitted to support them, had been solemnly sworn in to support themselves.

From these sources came streams of fresh recruits to join the army of women workers on its march, so that in 1900, when the last private had fled past the reviewing stand in which William R. Merritt, director of the census, was sitting, it was found that the total number of women in the industrial parade in the United States was not 3,757,689, as it should have been, but 4,833,640.

In the course of twenty years there had been more than 1,000,000 statistically unexpected additions to the ranks!

Was there, in that time, any other social change more fundamental?

WOMEN WORKERS

In Twenty Years One Million Have Joined Ranks.

In the year 1880 the army of women workers in the United States numbered 2,355,988.

Twenty years later, if that army had grown only in proportion to the growth of total population in the United States, it would have numbered 3,757,689.

But there had been recruiting stations scattered along the way, declaring a writer in Everybody's Magazine.

Making Good Makes Friends

There is no way of making lasting friends like "Making Good"; and Dr. Pierce's medicines well exemplify this, and their friends, after more than two decades of popularity are numbered by the hundreds of thousands. They have "made good" and they have not made drunkards. A good, honest square-deal medicine of known composition is

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It still enjoys an immense sale, while most of the preparations that came into prominence in the earlier period of its popularity have "gone by the board" and are never more heard of. There must be some reason for this long-time popularity and that is to be found in its superior merits. When once given a fair trial for weak stomach, or for liver and blood affections, its superior curative qualities are soon manifest; hence it has survived and grown in popular favor, while scores of less meritorious articles have suddenly flashed into favor for a brief period and then been as soon forgotten.

For a torpid liver with its attendant indigestion, dyspepsia, headache, perhaps dizziness, foul breath, nasty coated tongue, with bitter taste, loss of appetite, with distress after eating, nervousness and debility, nothing is as good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It's an honest, square-deal medicine with all its ingredients printed on bottle-wrapper—no secret, no hocus-pocus humbug, therefore don't accept a substitute that the dealer may make a little bigger profit. Insist on your right to have what you call for. Don't buy

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Expecting it to prove a "cure-all." It is only advised for woman's special ailments.

It makes weak women strong, sick women well. Less advertised than some preparations sold for like purposes, its sterling curative virtues still maintain its position in the front ranks, where it stood over two decades ago. As an invigorating tonic and strengthening nerve it is unequalled. It won't satisfy those who want "noise," for it contains not a drop of alcohol in it.

THE BARRIER

By Rex Beach

Copyright, 1909, by Harper & Brothers

Runnel saw him coming and scrambled frantically to his feet, then got on his feet and staggered down the bar. As Poleon overtook him he cried out pitifully, a shrill scream of terror, and, falling to his knees, groveled and debated himself like a fool crippling at fear of the lash. His agony dispelled the savage lust of Poleon's aboriginal trailing in Neola, and the pure white blood of her ancestors cried out:

"Poleon, Poleon—not that!" She hurried after him to where he paused above
the wretch waiting for her. "You mustn't!" she said. "That would be murder, and—no! it's all over now."
The Frenchman looked at her wonderfully, not comprehending this sudden leniency.

"Let him alone. You've nearly killed him. That's enough." Whereat Runnel, broken in body and spirit, began to beg for his life.

"What's that you say just now?" Do-ret asked the girl. "Was that de truth
for sure what you speak?"

"Yes, but you've done your work.
Don't touch him again."

He hesitated, and Runnel, quick to observe it, added his entreaty to hers.
"I'm beaten, Doret. You broke me to pieces. I need help—I'm hurt."

"What you 'speak' I do wit' 'im?" the Canadian asked, and she answered:
"I suppose we'll have to take him
where he can get assistance."

"But don't let 'em carry all free of us,"
"I'll stay here," groaned the frightened man. "I'll wait for a steamer to pick me up, but for God's sake don't touch me again!"

Poleon looked him over carefully and made up his mind that the man was more injured in spirit than in body.
For outside of his battered muscles he showed no fatal symptoms. Although the voyage was above to anger than a child, a grudge never died in him and his simple, self-taught cruel knowledge of the Frenchman's fate was unforgotten for such men as Runnel, cherished no mercy for preying men or beasts. He glared toward the wooded shore, a stone's throw above,
then back at the coward he had beaten and whose life was forfeit under the code. There was a queer light in his eyes.

"Leave him here, Poleon. We'll go away, you and I, in the canoe, and the first boat will pick him up. Come," Neola tugged at his wrist for fear she might not prevail, but he was bent on brushing away a handful of hungry mosquitoes which warmed by the growing day, had ventured out on the river. His face became wrinkled and set.

"Blen!" he grunted. "We left 'im
here because dere ain't nough room
in de battoon, eh? All right. Dat's good thing. But he's sick man, so maybe I fix it him nice place for stop till den boat come."

"Yes, yes. Leave me here. I'll make it tough all right," begged Runnel.
"Better you camp yonder on de point,
where you can see dese steamboat w'en
she comes round de bend. Dis is bad place!" He indicated the thicket, a quarter of a mile above which ran out almost to the cut bank. "Come, I help you get free."

Runnel shrank from his proffered assistance half fearfully, but, reassured, allowed the Frenchman to help him toward the shore.

"We tell de first boat 'bout you an' dey pick you up. You wait here, Neola."

The girl watched her rescuer guide
Runnel up to the level of the woods,
then disappear with him in the firs,
and was relieved to see the two emerge upon the river bank again farther on, for she had feared for him instant that Poleon might forget. There seemed to be no danger, however, for he was crashing through the brush in advance of the other, who followed laboriously. Once Runnel gained the high point he would be able to command a view of both reaches of the river and could make signals to attract the first steamboat that chanced to come along. Without doubt a craft of some sort would pass from one direction or the other by tomorrow at latest, or, if not, she and Poleon could send back succor to him from the first habitation they encountered. The two men disappeared again, and her fears had begun to prey on her a second time when she beheld the first Canadian returning. He was hurrying a bit, apparently to be rid of the mosquitoes that swarmed about him, and she marked that, in addition to whipping himself with a handful of blackberry bushes, he wore Runnel's coat
to protect his shoulders.

"Woof! Dose skelter bug is honery," he cried.

"Dis nice battoon," Poleon remarked critically; "I mak' it go fast," and began to row swiftly, seeking the breeze off the open river in which to shake off the horde of stinging pests that had risen with the sun. "I come way queeck w'out 'tinkin' 'bout gun or skeeter net or no'tin'." Runnel saw his len' mo dis boat, so mehlie I don't look so wose ink I do jus' now, eh?"

"How did you leave him? Is he badly injured?"

"No! I hush it up on de face an' de rib, but she's feelin' good now. Yes, I'm leave 'im nice place for stop an'
wait ou de steamboat—plantees spruce bough for set on."

She began to shudder again, and,
sensitive to her every motion, he asked solicitously if she were sick, but she shook her head.

"I—I was thinking what—supposing you hadn't come! Oh, Poleon, you don't know what you saved me from!"
She leaned forward and laid a tiny,

grateful hand on the huge brown paw that rested on his ear. "I wonder if I can ever forget!"

She noted that they were running
with the current and inquired:

"Where are we going?"

"Waal, I can't pull dis boat 'galnet
dat current, so I guess we pass on till I fin' my shirt, den blinchy we pick it up some steamboat an' go home."

Five miles below his quick eye detected his half submerged "bark"
lodged beneath some overhanging firs which from the water's action had fallen forward into the stream, and by rare good fortune it was still upright, although awash. He towed it to the next sand bar, where he wrung out and donned his shirt, then tipped the water from the smaller craft and,
making it fast astern of the Peterborough, set out once more. Toward noon they came in sight of a little stern wheeled craft that puffed and pattered manfully against the sweeping current, hiding behind the pilots and bars and following the slackest
water.

"It's the mission boat!" cried Neola.
"It's the mission boat! Father Barnum will be aboard."

She waved her arms madly and mingled her voice with Poleon's until a black robed figure appeared beside the pilothouse.

"Father Barnum!" she screamed, and,
recognizing her, he signaled back.

Soon they were alongside, and a pair of Swiss deck hands lifted Neola aboard, Doret following in her wake. He dragged both canoes out of the boiling tide and laid them bottom up on the forward deck, then climbed the narrow little stairs to find Neola
in the arms of a beaming man, white-haired priest, the best loved man on the Yukon, who broke away from the girl to greet the Frenchman, his kind face bright with astonishment.

"What is all this I hear? Slowly, Doret, slowly! My little girl is talking too furiously for those poor old wits to follow. I can't understand. I am amazed. What is this tale?"

Together they told him, while his blue eyes now opened wide with wonder, now grew soft with pity, then blazed with indignation. When they had finished he laid his hand upon Doret's shoulder.

"My son, I thank God for your good body and your clean heart. You saved
our Neola, and you will be rewarded.
As to this—this man Runnel, we must find him, and he must be sent out of the country."

It required some pressure to persuade the Frenchman, but at last he consented, and as the afternoon drew to a close the little steamboat came quattering and wheezing up to the bar where Runnel had built his fire
that morning, and a long, shrill blast summoned him from the point above.

When he did not appear the priest took Poleon and his round faced, silent crew of two and went up the bank,
but they found no sign of the crippled man—only a few rags, a trampled patch of brush at the forest's edge, and that was all. The springy moss showed no trail. The thicket gave no answer to their cries, although they spent an hour in a scattered search and sounded the steamboat's whistle again and again.

"It's try for walk it back to camp,"
said Doret. "Mehlie he ain't hurt no much, after all."

"You must be right," said Father Barnum. "We will keep the steamboat close to this shore, so that he can hail us when we overtake him."

And so they resumed their toilsome trip, but mile after mile fell behind them, and still no voice came from the woods—no figure hailed them. Doret, incurable and silent, lounged against the pilothouse smoking innumerable cigarettes which he rolled from squares
of newspaper, his keen eyes apparently scanning every foot of their slow way, but when night fell at last and the bank faded from sight he tossed the last butt overboard, smiled grimly into the darkness and went below.

EPILEPSY CURED.
To Whom It May Concern:—I will say my wife had epilepsy or fits for thirteen years. I secured one bottle of Hays' Specific. She had two fits the day I got the bottle. She had from two to three fits a day. She has no more fits. I would not take ten times the cost of the medicine
and be without it.

KY. TOURISTS

FILE ACTION IN LOS ANGELES
FOR $2,000 DAMAGES.

Allege Infraction of Contract to Furnish Berths—Forced to Ride
in Chair Car.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 27.—A party of tourists from Paducah, Ky., stopped here long enough to sue the Pullman company for $2,000 for an alleged infraction of the contract to furnish them with lower berths. Ad-dise Barnhart and her father, B. Barnhart, are suing, and a similar case is pending against the Pullman corporation with Nellie and H. C. Warren as plaintiffs, they having been of the party.

All the troubles of travelers who purchase lower berths, sometimes only to find that they must put up with upper ones, were rehearsed in court. It is alleged in the complaint that the plaintiffs purchased first-class tickets, good for passage between the points named, and lower berths in the tourist sleeper "Marion" at San Antonio, Tex. The sleeper was cut off and they were compelled to travel
some time in a chair car.

"You say the Pullman conductor ordered you out of the sleeping car
at San Antonio?" asked the attorney representing the defendant, of Ad-dise Barnhart, one of the plaintiffs.

"Yes, sir," was the prompt reply.
"How was he dressed?"

"Oh, he was rigged out in a fine
suit and brass buttons; all swelled
up like the Pullman conductors,"
said the witness.

The line of examination was shifted. The case was submitted.

His Opportunity.
Mother—Johnny, Johnny, why are you sleeping little sister?

Johnny (sullenly)—Auntie made me.

Auntie—Why, Johnny, how can you tell such a falsehood?

Johnny—Well, you did. You said you'd never kiss me again if I hurted
my little sister.—Judge.

Don't attempt to discourage the girl who giggles. What this sorry old world needs is more giggling.

SAGE FOR DARKENING THE HAIR.

There is nothing new about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our great grandmothers kept their locks soft, dark and glossy by using a "sage tea."

Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of sage leaves and applied it to their hair
with wonderfully beneficial effect.

Nowadays we don't have to resort to the old-time, tiresome method of gathering the herbs and mulling the brew. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves, and all we have to do is to call for the ready made product, Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, containing sage in the proper strength, with the addition of Sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy. This preparation is sold by all first-class druggists for 50c and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price. For sale and recommended by W. J. Gilhert.

A Promise to Pay

Would you accept a stranger's note? No. Then why accept from a stranger any other promise to pay? A Fire Insurance policy is such a promise. Ought you to accept it without knowing all about the Company? Your usual business confidence is based on knowledge. Why make an exception in that part of your business which deals with insurance? A name is worth nothing on any kind of a promise to pay unless it is backed by character and resources.

We favor insurance knowledge, particularly about our companies. Their promises to pay have never gone to protect. Their obligations to its policy holders are backed with such a good reputation and such ample financial resources that the more you know about them the more you will want protection by their policies.
